

PRISMA COLLABORATION

ABOUT THE PARTNERSHIP

The CRPH was approached by one of our healthcare organization partners for assistance in identifying new potential service areas. Our team created a map that highlighted regions of South Carolina in need of increased local healthcare options as well as areas that are eligible for Rural Health Clinic designation.

Prisma's Director of Rural Health, Andrew Johnson, used this tool to evaluate potential sites' ability to support a new rural health clinic. Since 2019, the tool has been used to build new Prisma Health infrastructure in three rural areas: Anderson County, Traveler's Rest, and Fountain Inn. Once construction is complete, these new clinics will house 20-30 new providers and increase access to primary and some specialty care.

These aggregated data maps allow Prisma Health to discern new areas of service. Although not every clinic can be placed in a rural area, Prisma Health was able to identify three locations where they will be opening new rural health clinics.
